I am a Civil Engineer turned Teacher. I have an absolute passion for education and constant personal growth. My strength is in my ability to create a culture where authenticity and courage are celebrated within my classrooms. As I continue to develop my teaching, helping foster an intrinsically motivated student through meaningful, individual conversations and whole-class discussions has become a focus. Mindfulness is an integral part of a developing person and is incorporated into my lessons to practice the skills of resiliency, courage, gratitude and strength of character. I consider myself to still be learning and will forever be learning, so to my pedagogical practice will continue to change and develop over time as I reflect on each lesson I deliver.

Education

2011 - 2015 Bachelor of Engineering (Civil)

University of Queensland - Brisbane, QLD

Studied all aspects of Civil Engineering including Structural Design, Hydraulic Engineering, Dam Design, Structural Analysis, and Geotechnical Engineering.

2017 Graduate Diploma of Education (Maths)

Queensland University of Technology - Brisbane, QLD

Studied the aspects of psychology of learning, particularly in the areas of Mathematics and Science. Created lesson plans, unit plans and wrote papers on teaching and learning reflection.

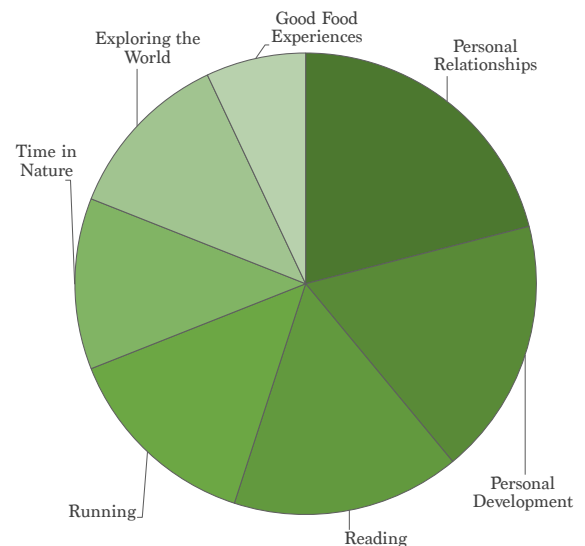

Career

2018 - 2022 Holland Park SHS - Maths/Science Teacher

- Developed mathematical confidence in my students
- Created support groups for students who need safe spaces during lunch times. This has continued to grow to recently become a permanently supervised area at school.
- 2019 Supported a gender diversity group for these students to feel empowered.
- 2019-2020 Lead the Year 7 Maths work program which developed my skills in broader planning frameworks
- 2021 Dean of Year 9 Students. Involved in the well-being program. Consulted with parents. Acted as a mediator for students' conflicts.

My Personal Life

Outside of teaching, my life consists of involving myself in trips into nature, fitness and strengthening my relationship not only with others, but most importantly, with myself.

I am ambitious, wanting to serve something bigger than myself. For me, that is teaching and to help younger people find meaning and a strong sense of self-worth in their lives.

This is only but a small snippet of who I am to get a better idea of what I do. Please check out:
